DETAILED ACTION

Response to Arguments

1. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1 - 4 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

2. Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the enablement requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to enable one skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and/or use the invention. The term "Plain text" has been included in claim 1. This terminology is not found anywhere in the specifications.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 1 – 4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Tamer, patent number: US 6 671 881 B1 in view of Young, publication number: US 2003/0159147 A1 in further view of Ellis, publication number: 2003/0020744 A1.

Art Unit: 2425

As per claim 1, Tamer teaches a system for selecting and confirming an impulse purchase for pay television, the system comprising:

Means for selection by the user of a program of a particular choice of the user, the choice confirmed in the system by an entitlement management message, the message being specific to an impulse purchase (selecting programs from an EPG, col. 3, lines 30 – 59, EMM, col. 4, lines 42 – 49, 54 - 57),

Wherein the entitlement management message specific to the impulse purchase is exclusively contained in data tied to the presentation of the program listing (entitlement for specific programs, col. 4, lines 65 - 68) and which comprises a directly readable, intelligible descriptor message that provides immediate access to the selected program (smart card interpreting entitlement information to allow access to media, col. 4, lines 42 - 67).

Tamer does not teach a display device for presentation to a user a listing of programs. In an analogous art, Young teaches a display device for presentation to a user a listing of programs (display and guide, [0073- 0074], [0139]).

Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to modify Tamer by including a system that allows available programs to be viewed on a display, as described by Young's television schedule system, for the advantages of improving system interactivity and giving the user a better idea of the available programs.

The combination of Tamer and Young does not teach the intelligible descriptor being plain text.

Art Unit: 2425

In an analogous art, Ellis teaches the intelligible descriptor being plain text (program information sent to user including title and channel information, [0039]).

Therefore, it would have been obvious to those of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to modify the combination of Tamer and Young by including a system as described in Ellis that sends intelligible program information to user for the advantage of reducing the tasks, such as decoding, place on the system.

As per claim 2, the combination of Tamer, Young and Ellis teach System according to Claim 1, wherein the entitlement management message is used locally in a hardware subassembly installed at the user's premises, the hardware subassembly comprising a security module in which is stored subscriber authorizations and subscriptions profile relating to the user (Tamer: smart card apparatus 31, col. 4, lines 42 – 49, Fig. 3).

As per claim 3, the combination of Tamer, Young and Ellis teach System according to Claim 1, wherein the entitlement management message specific to the impulse purchase includes a notification to authorize viewing, or veto of the viewing authorization (Tamer: EMM for determining programs viewers are entitled to, col. 4, lines 54 - 57).

As per claim 4, the combination of Tamer, Young and Ellis teach system according to Claim 1, wherein the entitlement management message (EMM) comprises conditions defining the authorization of viewing and conditions of cancellation of the authorization (Tamer: authorization, col. 4, line 65 - 67).

Conclusion

5. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
